PROFILE

Born and raised in Honolulu, Hawaii, studying in New York City, currently in my senior year of undergraduate school. I taught myself photography, Photoshop, and web design at a young age. Luckily I've been able to develop my skills in school since then and work to continue that growth in my career.

THE NEW SCHOOL UNIVERSITY

RESIDENCE HALL OFFICE & MAIL ROOM ASSISTANT 2016 - PRESENT

While at 13th Street and Kerrey Residence Hall, I performed clerical duties such as answering e-mails, data entry, and document management. Additional out of office tasks included maintaining upkeep of community facilities and giving prospective residents tours of the property. I also helped residents with general questions and emergencies. This gave me the most experience in handling sensitive documents and working in a highly professional environment to manage and facilitate the residence hall.

The activity requires I demonstrate highly seasoned communication and public speaking abilities. Building my own case requires engaging in long hours of extensive research and utilizing resourcefulness. In rounds, I would perform in a professional manner while in highly stressful situations and was pushed to improvise and adapt to best suit constantly evolving challenges. While abroad, I continue to assist the team with research and making posters.

ʻIOLANI

ART DEPARTMENT TEACHER'S AIDE 2016

I was tasked with performing duties such as organizing student work files and updating shared student server. My biggest project was founding and managing the Photography Department's archival system; creating system's standards. I also ran errands and communicated under the management of three different educators. Daily tasks include preparing materials for class such as cutting boards, distributing paint, sectioning clay, etc as well as assisting students in creative projects, and facilitating critiques.

KA MO'OLELO O ʻIOLANI CHIEF PHOTO & DESIGN EDITOR 2015 - 2016

As a senior editor, I oversaw the production of a 500+ page publication. My primary focus was photography and design, which included creating the design standards, making layouts, graphics, teaching and managing staff, editing and curating photos, and making the final edits before submission leading to precise attention to detail and the ability to meet strict deadlines.
